RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 54 pages. Original publisher: Washington, D. C. : United States Environmental Protection Agency, Office of Research and Development, 2005 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)64177413 Subject: Endocrine glands -- Effect of chemicals on. Excerpt: . . . Recommendation: EPA should continue to improve its interactions with other agencies that have a strong interest in EDCs to identify new sources of environmental and human exposures, including investigating the role of pharmaceuticals as sources of EDCs. It was not feasible for scientists conducting epidemiologic studies to attend the face-to-face meeting. Although the EDC Subcommittee members were provided a CD-ROM of the Tulane conference and one of the subcommittee members attended the conference, the subcommittee members thought it would be helpful to include poster presentations by each of the scientists funded by this interagency program for subsequent program reviews. Recommendations: It will be important for EPA to take a leadership role in the application of the omics technologies to address many of the science questions critical for evaluating environmental and human health effects of EDCs. This will require a strong commitment to a systems biology approach and computational toxicology as well as effective interactions with those generating much of the basic data. EPA should continue to investigate the common ground between ecological and human health because the Agency is in a unique position to do so. ONG ERM OAL L-T G 3 LTG 3: Support EPAs screening and testing program. ORD has articulated clear goals for the development of screening and testing methods for endocrine disruption, and is fulfilling those goals in an admirable fashion. The research is directly relevant to legislation administered by EPA and is serving the program offices well. With regard to LTG 3, EPAs research is well coordinated with that...
