Reviews

It is great and fantastic. It can be written in easy phrases and never hard to understand. You will not really feel monotony at any time of your respective time (that's what catalogues are for concerning if you request me).

Not illustrated. 1865 Excerpt: .in his orient vest; Athirst the sparkling dew to absorb, Distill'd upon nature's breast;--Away in his car of light he wheels, And life and beauty to all reveals, Till evening opens her gorgeous dome, And golden vista, to hail him home. The moon now kindles her lamp of light, To illumine the dreary vault of night, While a thousand orbs around her blaze, And silently mingle their watchful rays; The earth is asleep in its gloomy shrine, And all is still save the power divine, That guides them unerring through boundless space, Where no thought can fathom, no eye can trace. And here, an atom of dust, I stand, Fashion'd to life by His plastic hand; A touch of Omnipotent power inspires My bounding heart with immortal fires. My spirit wakes from her earthly dream, Visions of rapture to me are given, --Hark! 'tis the song of a wondrous theme: Hark! 'tis an echo that falls from heaven. Roll on, thou sun, in thy splendid pride; Ye moon and stars in your silvery tide; Thou earth, with beauty and wonder rife; Thou nature, big with the pomp of life;--Roll on in splendour, and glory, and might, -Then cometh a flash from His awful sight, And hurl'd into ruin ye soon shall be, Lost in a boundless immensity! Rise, my spirit, to yon bright sky, Thy palace of rest is built on high! Bright with the smile of the Holy One, The...
